Academic Status Report 3 went out to instructors of undergraduate students on March 27. This 12-week report is sent to instructors who teach courses in which new first-time students and student athletes are enrolled—two groups at heightened academic risk and most responsive to outreach efforts. Instructors are asked to provide feedback to their students so that students and support offices can take action. Academic advisors and other support staff at the University are able to see flags and kudos for their students and may provide additional outreach to support them. For questions about Academic Status Reports, visit the Students First Office Starfish website.

*Instructors are asked to submit their reports as soon as possible upon receiving an email request.

Clearing Starfish Flags
Instructors are encouraged to clear any irrelevant or resolved Starfish flags as soon as possible.

******
Clearing flags allows advisors and support staff to prioritize students who may need academic assistance as we enter the last few weeks of the term.

******
Starfish tracking items will automatically be cleared by Starfish administrators on May 4, 2018.

Seeking Feedback: Spring 2018 Starfish Surveys

Instructor Survey: At the end of every fall & spring semester, the Students First Office asks course instructors to provide feedback about the Starfish technology. The Spring 2018 Instructor Survey will be emailed to all undergraduate course instructors on Monday, April 23. Instructors will have until May 4 to complete the survey.

Starfish Advisor Survey: At the end of every spring semester, we ask academic advisors for feedback about Starfish and how it contributes to advising practices. The Spring 2018 Advisor Survey will be emailed to all undergraduate advisors on Monday, April 30. Advisors will have until May 11 to complete the survey.

*Student Feedback: At the end of every semester, students are also emailed a survey to collect their feedback on Starfish and how it supports their academic success.

Starfish Training
Summer is a great opportunity for a Starfish refresher for you and/or your department!

We currently offer two workshop options:
- Starfish 101 for Instructors
- Starfish 101 for Advisors

Sign up on workshops.uncg.edu. Summer offerings will be posted May 4.

To arrange departmental or individual training, please contact us at starfish@uncg.edu.

Not Receiving Starfish Emails?
Check your spam box!
Some Starfish users have reported that Starfish emails go directly to their spam email boxes. Starfish emails will always come from one of three addresses:

starfish@uncg.edu
notices@starfishsolutions.com
calendar-ea@dostarfish.com

To stop these emails from going to spam, mark them as “Not Spam” and/or add these addresses to your iSpartan contacts.
